A Note from PASTOR JOHN

New growth will come

For as the rain and the snow come down from heaven, and do not return there until they have watered the earth, making it bring forth and sprout, giving seed to the sower and bread to the eater, so shall my word be that goes out from my mouth; it shall not return to me empty, but it shall accomplish that which I purpose, and succeed in the thing for which I sent it Isaiah 55:10-11

As I write this I'm looking out the window at a world frozen in snow and ice. At the moment the idea of new growth seems unlikely at best. But we know a new season is coming, and things will look different in few months. But there will be some cold, dark nights before we get there.

This is true of the Bible story we follow in the next weeks as well. We are entering into Lent this month and follow the story of Jesus' ministry and journey toward the cross. Of course, we know that Easter lies ahead, but there will be dark days in the story before we get there.

This season in history has been especially difficult. We've been enduring struggles for months now, and we still have a way to go. There will be difficult days, but this season will end. In the story of the pandemic, hope comes with advances in vaccines and the power of medicine.

In the story of our life of faith, hope come becomes we know that God's people have endured difficult seasons in the past, and that God continues to send the Word which brings hope, healing, and life. God's Word will continue to do that which God intends. The Word will bring new life! What can we do to nurture that seed of new life for the days ahead? How can we use our gifts to strengthen our community of faith so that we are ready for a new season of growth?

God's Peace,

LENT 2021

Ash Wednesday – February 17th

We will offer ‘drive-up’ imposition of ashes from Noon to 1 PM and 4 to 5 PM at the entrance to the new addition off the parking lot. Ashes will be shared by staff with masks, gloves, and face shields. You can pull into the circle drive and opening your car windows. Each person in the car must be wearing a mask as well.

There will also be some packets of ashes that you could take home if you wish to impose ashes as a family.

Ash Wednesday worship, with a special new virtual choir performance, will be available online beginning at 11 AM.

Beginning of February 24th, we will share the Lenten Series:

“DEAR PAUL”

After many years of writing letters to the early Christian churches, Paul is still at it in Heaven, reading letters from, and answering, 21st century folks. Paul's sometimes humorous, always heartfelt responses to modern-day issues and questions reflect the same message of grace, love and Christian unity he shared with the church at Ephesus 2000 years ago.

This series of brief weekly plays will be presented online as a way of introducing the lessons from the Letter to the Ephesians. If you would like to take part in a zoom recording of one of these plays, please contact Pastor John.

These Lenten worship services will also be available online beginning at 11 AM each Wednesday.

PASTORAL INTERN

Dear Siblings in Christ,

Thank you for making the start of the new year a good one here at the church. As we are approaching almost a year of participating in church differently due to the pandemic there is hope on the horizon as the vaccine is slowly starting to be delivered throughout the community. I know that there is still much lamenting that it is not yet safe to gather in large groups yet but remember we are doing the hard work of staying physically distanced out of our love that God has taught us to have, to love our neighbors. When the pandemic started to affect us here in the U.S., I doubt any of us expected we would still be dealing with all of this now, that we still would be gathering together over virtual means or in the parking lot, instead of in the sanctuary space. This is a hard time for us all as we are dealing with feelings of disconnection and grief within our current situations. We trust in the good news that God is always with us no matter what. God is able to work through all the means we have at our disposal. God is there with us as we join together for worship virtually as well as in the parking lot.

Please feel free to reach out to me if you ever want to have a chat over the phone or over zoom. This time of the year, being colder makes it harder to safely physically distance but know that if you would like to bundle up for a distanced chat out in the elements, I am willing to do that as well.

I have shared some words on behalf of this month's Benevolence offering of racial justice & equity programming throughout this year. I encourage you to check that out and look forward to more information in the coming weeks/months. Please let me know if you have any questions or comments.

Peace,
Intern Tamara

BENEVOLENCE

Elevating the Racial Justice Movement Through ELC

Many of the charities that we support through the Benevolence Program benefit neighbors of color. It has come to our attention through witnessing the events of the past year that we have much work to continue to do in understanding the issues of racial inequality that has and continues to wreak havoc and sow division and misunderstanding within our own communities. This month the Social Action Team has devoted the Benevolence donations to go towards educational programming on racial justice and racial equity. It is fitting to have racial equity education as our fundraising efforts for the month as we remember and celebrate Black History Month. We are hoping with the funds raised that we will be able to offer educational programming throughout the year of 2021 not just for us, here at ELC but to also be able to reach out to and include others from our community of Mt. Horeb so we can learn as a community together.

I am grateful for Adam asking me to be a part of making this a reality here at ELC because there are a few reasons why racial justice and equity education are important to me personally. One of the first times I had the opportunity to truly be made aware of racial inequalities was when I participated in Lutheran Volunteer Corps for a year after graduating college. For that year I worked at a community center in the inner city of Wilmington, Delaware working mostly with elementary aged children of color. It is true that children pay attention to what goes on in the world around them. Some of the things these children would say based on their observations of society were heart breaking. This was in 2013-14, which was near the beginning of when I started to notice national attention of people who looked like these kids, some not much older than those I worked with, being killed indiscriminately while the killers were often not held accountable in the justice systems. I remember one kid had asked “why do people hate us just because we’re black?” I had no answer, how do you answer a question like this that was asked by a 2nd grader? Or what do you say to a child that says they wish they were your color? Platitudes and saying that their color is beautiful only goes so far when they already know and realize that a person's skin color can impact how our society treats them. There's nothing I could say other than to vow to work to change these societal systems that have allowed these things to be their reality. That year helped to really open my eyes at how privileged I am that I never had to truly worry personally about most of what they all already had real reasons to worry about.

Another reason why this topic is important to me is that a few years ago I gained a brother-in-law who is black. He quickly became a family member whom I hold dear, and I deeply value his perspectives and insights. This past summer I remember getting a text message from him saying that he was getting pulled over, and it included his geographical coordinates. I instantly dreaded what this might mean because I have heard of many traffic stops gone bad, especially for people of color. I was trying to figure out what I could do to help him being halfway across the country. I was scared for my loved one. A short time after that initial text, another came through saying that the last one was just a test of a new app he had downloaded for a future “just in case” moment. Just the thought that people, let alone a loved one, feels like it is necessary to have an app to be able to send their location at any given moment “just in case” they are stopped by the police is another heartbreaking moment that I had never thought about on a personal level before that instant. I truly hope that in my lifetime I will see that this type of app is no longer needed, but I know for that to become a reality it requires real work from people like you and me to make that change a reality.

The future programming throughout the year that this month's funds will go towards is still in the process of being finalized. The hope for this programming is that we have a chance to not only learn more about the history of the systems in place that have led to the unequal treatment of our siblings in Christ but to also learn actionable ways to be better allies within our own communities.
